Reports.

The British steamer Formosa, reports H.M.S. Hawes in Foochow; H.M.S. Cormorant and Grasshopper and str. Yesso in Amoy; Drake and Undine in Swatow. Had fresh N.E. gale from Foochow to Amoy thence light N.E. breezes and fine weather.

The British ship Mary Mildred, reports having had fine weather up the Palawan; thence a continuation of heavy gales in which she lost several sails and figure head.

The American barque Clara Rosa Sutil reports having had fine weather to the Bashees; thence fresh N.E. gale.

The American barque Galatea reports having had fine weather to the Bashees; thence fresh N.E. gale.

The British ship Lancaster reports having experienced variable winds and weather throughout the passage.

The Hamburg barque Martin reports having had experienced light N.E. winds the first part of the passage, till December 1st, a heavy W.N.W. gale with a heavy sea running to the southward. At 9 P.M. shipped a heavy sea which washed the captain overboard; made all possibilities to save him but in vain, the vessel going at 10 knots throught the water, the chief mate has charge of her at present.

The American ship Tennyson, Capt. Graves, reports having experienced light winds w Palawan but strong N.E. winds in crossing the sea, fell in with to the Northward of Palawan the following vessels from Singapore for this port. English ship W. G. Russell, Prussian ship Ferdinand Brumm, Prussian bark Agathe Johanne and Hamburg bark Natan, same time spoke English bark Mountain Ash from London for Japan.

The Madeira left Saigon on the 9th Nov. had stiff breeze and high sea along the shoals, from North danger to the Manila coast, had moderate breeze and on the Philipine coast calms and high North sea, from Cape Bolina to the Prata had stiff N.E. gales and tremendous high short sea, from thence to Hongkong stiff breeze and high sea.

Arrivals in British Waters.

The arrival of the following vessels in British waters is reported by the French mail:—

Blitz Shaw from Hankow, Tsing-tao from Foochow, Min from Hankow, Western Ch of from Hongkong, Ethiopian from Shanghai, Belle of So thein from Foochow.

The Lightning and Arabia both reached Singapore on the 12th of November. The Singapore Daily Times says:—We hear there was pretty race between the Arabia and Lightning on their last passage from China, both vessels leaving Hongkong at the same time and parting company shortly afterwards, only in sighting each other a few miles outside Pedro Branco the Arabia being then on the Lightning's quarter. The latter vessel anchoring in the roads in five days and seven and a half hours—one hour before the Arabia.

The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, DECEMBER 3, 1866.

The Gazette contains a supplementary memorandum by Sir J. Gaveson on the memorial concerning the dusk ordinance. He now says that in consequence of communications from this Governm nt, the Chinese have issued circular notices forbidding extortion against vessels carrying a white number under a Hongkong license, also that "there never was an intention to subject ordinary passenger and provision junks to the inconvenience and expense of procuring the numerous passes, notices, and clearances, required of other vessels. At the foot of the licenses of such boats there is to be a special permit dispensing with the necessity of complying with regulations only intended for vessels less known.

The failure of the French expedition to the Corea must be felt by all Europeans in this part of the world as a deep mortification. How it can have occurred, considering the strong force of vessels at the disposal of the admiral, is difficult to understand, while we are left with such meagre information as that in the Shanghai papers by the Cadix. Apparently the lateness of the season must have rendered it necessary to draw off the ships after the defeat the French seem to have sustained, but this consideration does not explain the reverse itself. Evidently the military strength of the Coreans must have been greatly underrated by the missionaries, and the French Admiral have been thus led to repeat one of the commonest mistakes noticeable in the history of the European intercourse with the East, an exaggerated contempt for Orientals adversaries. It is on account of the Coreans themselves that there is perhaps greatest reason to regret the check which the expedition has received. No European nation in this part of the world can afford to accept a defeat of even the most trifling character. Up to the period of the engagement at Khanghoa, the expedition was performing a work which, deplorable as it might be, politic as it might be in case of future results, was to a certain extent a work of suppression. No discredit would have attached to the European character amongst these nations, if the Coreans had been let alone. Perhaps the advance of a great expedition to revenge the death of a few obscure missionaries may have had a good effect in asserting by visible means the sacredness of European life, but no great harm would have ensued if the whole affair had been let alone. Now, however, a new color is put upon the transaction. A fleet of European ships advancing against a remote and uncivilised people, a mere tribe as it were, tributary to the Empire of China, have been foiled in the endeavour they made. This has been done in the sight of all men, and the prosecution of that endeavour to the uttermost limits, is not now a matter of policy, or to be carried or abandoned according to the interests involved, but an iron necessity which must not be set aside on any condition whatever. To us of course who know the force that lies behind the few vessels which may represent any European nation in the China waters, the ultimate result is not in the slightest degree doubtful. While it was uncertain before how far the French Admiral would push his retributory measures, or what sort of compensation he would exact from the Coreans, it is a matter of course now that he will force his way to the capital, whatever exertion of strength this may require, and utterly prostrate the native government which has had this great misfortune of winning a temporary victory over European arms. It is the old story of the Taku forts over again on a smaller scale, and the French must repeat in the Corea, adopting the old performance to the altered circumstances of the case, the destruction of the Summer Palace.

It was desirable we thought before, but it has become something more now, a pressing duty and a measure of the soundest policy that an English force should co-operate with the French in the invasion of the Corea. It is not a question now of whether or not the commercial resources of the country make it worth while to submit to any sacrifices for the sake of opening them up,—it is a question concerning our reputation in the East as members of the European family. It remains to be seen what view the Chinese will take of this rebuff which the French have received, but there is only one conclusion, to which they can eventually be allowed to come. They must be led to see that Europeans cannot fail, that when we undertake operations in this part of the world, it is out of the nature of things that we should be otherwise than successful. Momentary reverses may ensue from carelessness on our part arising from our knowledge that we must succeed in the end, but only one ultimate result is possible. The probabilities are that the Chinese will not to any wide extent, put a false interpretation upon the unfortunate accident in the north, that they will not attribute too much importance to it, that they will not look upon it as they looked upon the defeat at the Peiho as the indication that the sun of the foreigners had set. They know us better now, they have a wider experience of us, and the Government must be well informed in reality of facts which forbid them to treat such an incident as that at Khanghoa as of any importance whatever; but the reminder of this Corean episode must confirm and not shake the teachings of that experience.

We understand that the captain of the Avon had to fly from Macao in a fast boat after the ship reached that port to avoid proceedings taken against him by the new owners of the ship, for having broken his voyage by putting into Hongkong. The ship it seems was sold here by her former owner to the agents in Macao of the charterers in Havannah, as he would not allow her to be taken back to Macao, while she remained his property. The new owners appear to have been incensed against the captain on grounds totally different from those which the Hongkong Government went upon in prosecuting him here. The English authorities were indignant that a man should be concerned in the abominations of the slave trade in disguise; the Portuguese could only see in him a captain who had undertaken to convey coolies to the West Indies, and instead of doing this had put into Hongkong, and let some of the cargo escape. Poor Captain WARWICK was in trouble both ways and may congratulate himself that he is clear of the unpleasant duty, in which he had become involved. From what we hear of the circumstances under which the Avon sailed, the coolie trade would appear to have relapsed under the new GOVERNOR of Macao into the worst abuses. At first he was bent upon introducing strict reforms, and having a thorough examination of every ship carried out before her departure. In prosecuting this system he came at once into collision with the interests of the Macao coolie catchers by whom in some manner he appears to have been completely cowed into submission, so that the only examination carried on now, consists of two questions put to the coolies before they go to sea, have they received their advance, and have they been supplied with clothes. Kidnapping therefore is carried on more extensively than ever. The Chinese kidnappers no sooner are by the brokers to go on board the ship with their gangs and remain three or four days to smooth matters down if possible, of course all this time the ship is in the hands of a coolie agent, and is not handed over to the captain till she is ready for sea. In the case of the Avon some of these kidnappers were kidnapped in their turn and carried off, and it was by them that the terrible disturbance was raised which first opened the eyes of the captain to the nature of the proceedings by which his ship had been filled with "emigrants."

Since the Avon has been back at Macao some thirty children, whose presence on board the vessel without parents was in itself utter condemnation of those by whom she was loaded, have been taken by the agents to the authorities at Macao, and Chinese men and women have been brought to swear that they are the parents and that the children are being taken to Havannah with their,—the parents, consent. This monstrous farce has been accepted by the authorities, and the children have been passed for "emigration." It would not be on loose hearsay testimony that we would make this assertion, but the fact has reached us too directly to admit of much doubt as to its authenticity. It is the slave trade pure and simple and without any disguise at all which is now being carried on at Macao according to the information we receive about the Avon. In a little time an anti-slavery squadron will be more wanted in these waters than on the West Coast of Africa.

The Gazette announces that Inspector James Ellis is dismissed from the police.

Up to the 22d, our latest dates, there is no report of the arrival of the Zebra at Singapore.

The H. S. steamer Achmuth steams by the Singapore papers to have arrived at that port on the 12th of November from Galle and Penang and to have cleared for Hongkong on the 15th.

The interest of the French Mail has we believe arisen through the detention of the passengers at Suez, owing to the vexatious quarantine regulations of the Egyptian Government.

In the Gazette, is notified the return of Mr O. C. Smith to his duties as Registrar General, and the appointment of Mr. F. W. Mitchell to act as the registrarcy, in the absence of Mr. May or until further notice.

THE INTERIOR OF RUSSIA.—A letter from Novgorod in the Monde says:—"Without including the Grand Duchies of Warsaw and Finland there are 610,000 hereditary nobles in the Russian Empire. Of these there are only 232,300 in the provinces purely Russian, and 377,000 in Lithuania, Volhynia, and Podolia. The whole of the latter are Catholics. At Wilna, out of 51,078 nobles, only 6 are orthodox; and at Kowno there is not a single one out of 20,302. And all that population, acquired by treaties stimulating the freedom of the Catholic faith, instantly exiled or deposed from it, and has not a single journal or an educational establishment. That injustice becomes especially impossible when the concessions are considered which are made by the Government to the Christians who profess doctrines infinitely more dangerous than the Catholic, as in places no other bound than the divine law to the submission due to the authorities. Three sectarians have for chief place a town called Khvalynsk, not far from Saratof. The Golos has just published a description of it: they are there 1,725 and more here, possessing in a year eight wives (5/8 of a man each) in extent, a bishop, and a cathedral, and no stranger dare penetrate into their oasis. What passes there? How many mal factors seek refuge there? The authorities allow everything to pass over with as much as whereas, if a Catholic only suspected a baby before a picture in his own home, all the journals explain against the scandal."

Police Intelligence, December 1st.

BEFORE J. C. WITTE ESQ.

A MIXED UP AFFAIR.

Pedro Perseira, and Joseph Pomada, foreign seamen unemployed, staying at Julian's Boarding House, were charged with assaulting Henry King, seaman, belonging to a Bremen brig in the harbour, and robbing him of $2.

Prosecutor appeared rather stupified and muddled, and there was some difficulty in coming at the facts of the case, but at length it was elicited that at about 10 last night he was walking in the street with a friend when the prisoners struck him, he can give no reason why they should have assaulted him, and knows nothing about the $2 spoken of, he was not drunk but about "half seas over."

Orcff Stots, the friend in question, said that there was a row in the street with about twenty men, and prisoners who were in the scrimmage, suddenly turned round and and struck prosecutor.

The first prisoner denied the charge, and the second preferred to speak in English as he could do so better than the Court Spanish interpreter, (who certainly does make an awful mess of it.)

John Blum, carpenter, a wild looking individual, who appeared to have been somewhere about at the time, saw the two prisoners in the row alluded to, and also saw them attack prosecutor. On this evidence they were each fined $5, or in default to be imprisoned for seven days.

There was great difficulty in taking anything at all of the evidence in this case as none of the people concerned could speak remarkably good English, and all appeared to be more or less in a state of muddle.

A FALSE ORDER AND AN ABSCONDING DEBTOR.

Ng-quum-sing, master of the Chun-lee shop, Queen's Road West, was charged with taking one hundred dollars from his father's house in Tung-moo lane, and detaining him in his house until released by the police.

He said, stated that, about 3 p.m. yesterday the prisoner came to his father's shop, and asked for some money that was owing,—over $100 dollars. His father not having the money to pay the debt, prisoner expressed his intention of taking prosecutor as security, he therefore took him by the hand and led him away to a house in West Point where he was put into an upstairs room, but not locked up, he was led all the way from Tung mun lane to West Point and made no attempt at escape or to call for assistance.

The father it appeared was at Whampoa, and the magistrate said that there was no doubt he had run away to evade paying his just debts, and then attempted to bring a false charge against his creditor.

P. C. Thomas O'Brien deposed to arresting prisoner by warrant, in a house in West Point, the doors of which were all open and the prosecutor appeared perfectly free.

Inspector Bolgar, stated that the warrant was issued on information laid by two witnesses, and these upon it appeared were employee's of prosecutor's father.

Prisoner who was described by the interpreter as a "killing beef man" appeared to be a very obliging creditor and stated that prosecutor's father owed him Tls. 190.; he went yesterday to collect the money and prosecutor disputed the account, he therefore asked him to come home and he would show him the account; prosecutor then accompanied him and they remained looking over the accounts with his (prisoner's) accountant; he (prisoner) offered no obstacles to the boy leaving the house, but on the contrary invited him to stay to supper.

The magistrate said that this was only a clever dodge to evade payment of a debt by getting prisoner in jail on a trumped up charge, and he warned the men who laid the information that it was a dangerous game to carry on, as a man so arrested might bring an action for false imprisonment and get heavy damages.

STREET ROBBERY.

Tai-kong stone cutter, Tai-ping-shan, an old offender, was charged with snatching a pair of earrings from a woman in Gap Street, Tai-ping-shan, on the 30th inst.

P. C. 328 stated that at about 3 p.m. yesterday while on duty in Gap Street, a woman complained to him of the loss of her earrings, and he noticed that her ears were bleeding; she pointed out prisoner who was running away and witness chased and caught him; he returned to look for the woman but could not find her and she was not now present; when searched, the earrings were not found on him.

Prisoner's statement was to the effect that he was walking quietly along the street when arrested by the constable, he is quite a stranger in the colony having only arrived here yesterday.

It appeared however that Mr. Douglas knew him to have been guilty once at least, and the magistrate told him that it was a fortunate thing for him that the woman was not present to prosecute, otherwise he would in all probability have been committed to the Supreme Court and most likely have received a flogging which would have done him an immensity of good, and his Worship only regretted that he himself had not the power to inflict corporeal punishment on this occasion as it was, he committed prisoner to gaol for three months with hard labour, and required him to find security for his good behaviour for nine months further, he also warned him that if found in the colony after this he would be brought up, and flogged on every occasion that he was caught.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY BY DESTITUTE EUROPEANS.

Patrick McQuade, and John Kelly, two destitute unemployed seamen, having no means or place of residence, were charged with attempting to pick the pockets of Frederick Oscar Arnold.

Mr. Arnold, stated that he was a clerk employed by Messrs Sandeman & Co. The day before yesterday about 3 P.M., while walking in Staunton street towards Queen's Road West, having got as far as Wellington Street, when near the old Police station he saw the first prisoner and another man sitting together on the steps, the first nudged the other with his elbow and made a sign to witness a few minutes after, returning through Wellington Street, on turning suddenly round two men, one of them the first prisoner, made a rush at him, the first prisoner stood before him and took off his hat saying "will you be so kind" witness said he was not liking the appearance of things, but the first prisoner came still closer and made a grab at his watch chain, he tried to defend himself and the two men made off, he informed Mr. Jarman of the occurrence and was sent for yesterday to the charge room, where he identified the first prisoner, he believes the second was the other man, but cannot quite swear to him, no one was with witness at the time.

First prisoner denied the charge "in toto" he was sent down here from Amoy about eight weeks ago, he has been in gaol and was discharged about three weeks ago.

The second said he was in company with the first yesterday when arrested, he came here in the barque Ellen, dismasted about five month's ago, two of which he has spent in gaol, he was last discharged about five weeks ago.

Mr. Douglas stated however that this man had been one of his lodgers on three different occasions, and the first once at least.

Both these men are well known to the police as confirmed loafers and vagabonds, who will not work, and it was stated the second had refused to ship on several occasions.

The magistrate characterised them as a class of men which may possibly some day become important, as if they employ a foreigner of one particular nationality as commander of their forces, it is clear that he is likely to possess an amount of influence and power which may perhaps be called in question in the same manner as was the case with regard to the Sherard Osborne fleet.

A serious charge of neglect has been brought against the medical officer of the municipal council, and a good deal of interest has been taken in the subject, chiefly because there was an evident desire on the part of some of the "Councillors" not to have the

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

The most important items of foreign intelligence by the present mail are as follows:—

PRUSSIA.—The North German Parliament is to meet in January, and it is then proposed to declare the King Emperor of Germany. The Budget is settled but has been disbanded, and conveyed into Austrian territory.

AUSTRIA.—The Austro-Italian treaty was ratified at Vienna on the 12th inst. The Italian indemnity was paid, and the "Iron Crown" surrendered.

ITALY.—The Fortresses of the Quadrilateral have been evacuated by the Austrians. Voluntary subscriptions for the National Loan have been raised all over the country. The Italians will enter Venice on the 19th inst.

UNITED STATES.—The Radicals have carried the elections in Pennsylvania. The steamer Evening Star has foundered, 300 lives lost. It is supposed the Fenian Council will demand a writ of Habeas Corpus to bring him before the State Courts. A meeting has been held in Vancouvers' Island to petition the Home Government for a Responsible government, or annexation to the United States. The Fenians have made no further demonstration.

RESUSCITATION OF THE AGRA AND MASTERMANS BANK (LIMITED.)

(From the China Express.)

The plan for the resuscitation of the India and China Bank, which of late business has now been made public in the form of a circular to the shareholders. The proposed capital is to be £1,000,000, consisting of £6 0,000 estimated surplus assets, after paying all claims, and £400,000 by the issue of 40,000 shares of £10 each, to be subscribed by the public or the existing shareholders. The plan is of a most elaborate description, and if carried through will tend very much to the future permanent prosperity of the concern who are too poor not to be seriously inconvenienced by the postponement of their claims in the winding-up process now going on, although Mr. Cannon has worked very hard to reduce the time of such process to a minimum, and the payment of 8s. in last month was an agreeable surprise to a large number of creditors. The announcement that there will be £400,000 surplus after paying all creditors and winding up must please shareholders who have been disposed to listen to tales of mismanagement and imprudent operations. All these stories are capable of very easy solution. It was a mistake to attempt to be a London bank as well as an India and China one. The "Bears," who are described by the Economist as "the sovereigns of the Stock Exchange," found out certain week points, especially connected with the Paris bourse, and they made it pay to pull it down: but that combination we are convinced it would now be standing. One of the wisest propositions in the whole scheme is the small amount (£10) of the proposed new shares; this will render the launching far easier than by keeping the shares at the old amount (£50). It would have made the proposals more complete had the names of the proposed directors been given; the only name announced is that of Mr. Thomson, of the Madras Irrigation Company, and one of the directors of the old board. To impart confidence the names of first-class merchants unconnected with the late board will be necessary, and the proposed directors should not consist of more than seven gentlemen.

Ho-sic-k, the Compradore who was some time since charged with stealing $700 from the steamer Chinca, and who has since been on bail, was to-day brought up, and in consequence of the non-arrival of the Chinca, let on bail on finding two sureties in $1000 each for his appearance to answer any charge preferred against him for three months.

Mrs. Bistori, the French actress is creating a great excitement in New York. Yesterday the sale of tickets for her performances began in that city, and the building in which the ticket office was located was crowded with people, while a great number sundous for admittance filled up Broadway and the neighbouring streets. Three dollars is the price demanded for a seat, but speculators, taking advantage of the excitement, readily disposed of tickets for $20.—Letter from Philadelphia.

The Yankees, never at a loss for a new invention, have formed a joint stock company, with a large capital, to search for Captain Kidd's treasures! Kidd was a pirate, of the 17th century, who was said to have buried enormous amounts of plunder in neglected places along the shores of New England. This enterprising company have already began to sink a well on the coast of Connecticut, and are guided by the son of a man, who when living was supposed to be in Captain Kidd's confidence. This Quixotic enterprise, although so chimerical, has many devoted believers in New England.—Letter from Philadelphia

The authorities of the State of New York have recently published a list of the valuations of real and personal property in the valuations counties of the State, assessed for purposes of taxation. The total valuation of New York State is $1,231,229,635. New York city is valued at $665,781,355, two-fifths of the entire State and more than the entire valuation of the State of Pennsylvania in the last assessment; King's County (Brooklyn) is valued at $125,985,553, and Westchester County, on the Hudson River just above New York, at $41,971,218. New York, Cinc's, and Westchester counties, comprising the region adjacent to New York, bar, thus make up more than one-half the total valuation of the State. There are 60 counties in New York, their average valuation being $25,520,491.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Hongkong, Saturday Evening.

The day of the departure of the mail, and more especially when that day falls upon a Saturday, is almost always more than half a holiday among a majority of our large houses, the consequence is a small amount of business has been in progress in almost all branches of trade.

A slightly better feeling was apparent in the Opium market to-day, and rates are a shade higher. The closing quotations are, Patna cash and of the Eleventh Sales $602½, Benares $597½, and Malwa $785. Almost nothing has been done in Cotton to-day, and so far as noticed prices remain without alteration. Sales include 200 bales Ningpo at $202, 200 bales Shanghai at $27, 150 bales Bengal at $21. Piece Goods appear to be also quiet, sales are reported at 1000 pieces 7lb T. Cl. at $306, and 500 pieces 8/4 Gray Shirtings at $3.70, an advance of 2½ cents upon last quotations. Rice continues firm and there appears little disposition to sell among holders at present prices, they evidently having higher expectations. The exchange and share markets are without any change.

From Rowden Phipps & Co.'s circular dated Foochow November 24th, the Tea market had slightly improved. Congous over Tls 18 were firmer with buyers for the Colonies and Odongs were 1 and 2 taels higher. The settlements for the fortnight comprised 9,740 chests and 7,564 half chests Oolong, dust and broken leaf at Tls. 8.7.6 to 11, common to good common Tls 15 to 45 and finery to good finery Tls 46 to 24, 680 chests and 374 half chests Scochong for sale to second class at Tls 19 to 27.7 5, 2,723 half chests, Oolong common to fair cargo at Tls. 18.5 to 20.5 and 2,100 boxes scented common dusty to fair at Tls. 11 to 23. The Bonsan with 981,200 lbs., and John Tenpey with 1,358 100 lbs. had sailed for London the 26th and 21st instant.

The ship Galatea arrived to-day, having made the passage from San Francisco in the quick time of 44 days, and bringing dates from that port to the 17th of October. Business was rather improving although the demand for the full trade had not yet been very urgent. Cotton and Cotton Goods had experienced an advance in view of telegrams from New York reporting a higher market there. Transactions were, however, by no means in keeping with the large importation from the supply ports, and consequently the already large stock of burdensome stocks in the warehouses, were being augmented. The wheat crop was proving to be by far the largest ever gathered in the State, and notwithstanding the large surplus that were daily coming in from the interior, prices were buoyant with a decided upward tendency. The stock in the warehouses, in the city and its immediate vicinity was larger than it had ever been before and notwithstanding this there were thousands of sacks still in the fields and unthreshed. The market was active notwithstanding the want of sufficient tonnage to meet the current wants of exporters. Prices ranged between $1.45 and 1.65 according to quality. Less was doing in Flour, shippers showing a preference for Wheat notwithstanding this however, the market showed a much better tone. Quotations were Best Extra packed in lbs $5.75 to $6 City Mills Extra in half and quarter sacks $5.00 to 5.50. Extra and Superfine $4.75 to $5.50. Tonnage was yet considerably demanded at good rates, £3. £4.10 to Great Britain, £2.15 to Melbourne, £2. to Sydney, $18 to $20 currency to New York and $6. gold to China. The following table exhibits the amount of Treasure shipped during the first nine months of the year to China and Japan from San Francisco:

In January	$ 545,829 69
In February	1,211,608 97
In April	603,894 68

The commercial news by the mail is unimportant. The bank rate remains at 4½ per cent. Consols are quoted steady at 89¼ to 89¾. The uneasiness in regard to railroad shares seems to have subsided, and a slight advance had taken place. The interim dividend of the Oriental Bank was to be the rate of 12 per cent per annum. It was expected that the liquidator of the Commercial Bank Corporation of India would declare a dividend of between 5 and 10s.

The profits for the half year of the Chartered Bank of India were £60,000, £10,000 of which was carried forward and £20,000 divided as a dividend for the first year.

The Tea market continued dull the Minna and Eliza Shaw had arrived but few sales had been made, the quality of the New Moyunes, which they brought not being up to the ideas of dealers. Prices were generally a shade lower. The silk market was firm with an upward tendency No. 3 Teatlers being quoted 32/6 to 33/ A rise of about 1d from last quotations had taken place in Cotton at which the Market was strong. China is quoted at 11d.

The Status of Spain.

The assurance conveyed in the Circular of the Governor-General of Madrid, that tranquillity is re-established throughout the country subjected to his jurisdiction, must be a matter of great satisfaction to benevolent persons. Indeed, the only wonder among people placed at a distance arises as to the causes for disturbance that may at any time exist in the Peninsula. It seems difficult to conceive how any of the European families can be said to be half so well off as the one which is wont to style itself "La nacion hidalga"—the gentlemanly nation." What neighbours are there, one feels tempted to say, to vex or alarm the proud Castilian with threats of invasion or schemes of annexation? Is not the beautiful and bountiful land from the Pyrenees to the sea wholly and exclusively his own? Is not the reigning family a home dynasty, the issue, through a long series of Hapsburg and Bourbon Princes, of the good old blood of those two Catholic Sovereigns to whom the Monarchy owes its origin? Is not the army recruited among the natives of the soil? Does not the Spaniard make his own laws, and does not his Constitution spring from the genius and traditions of the Spanish race, and is it not sanctioned by its wants and aspirations? The answer to all these questions must be sought in those periodical riots, followed by wholesale executions, which have ceased to startle us from their very frequency, and to interest us from their barrenness of results, and the reports of which we dismiss from our minds with a quiet sneer about "Things of Spain," and about Europe ending at the Pyrenees." Tumults and insurrections in the Peninsula do not follow the laws of political storms common to other countries. They do not proceed from the distress, from the vices and evil passions, of the lower orders. There is, indeed, a Proletariat in Spain, and especially in Madrid and other large towns. But it is, on the whole, a supine, ignorant and submissive multitude, with few wants and no aspirations; not very accessible to notions of Democracy or even Communism, and only to be aroused by sudden fits of ferocious bigotry. Neither do parties run high among those upper classes who may be said to busy themselves with politics. What the peculiar views and aims of Moderados or Progresistas may be, few candid Spaniards would be able to define. Such names rose among the din of civil wars, when men had to choose between one branch and another of the same dynasty, or between a petitional Regency and one from the barracks. But since Queen Isabella was driven to her flight, there has been hardly anything resembling a popular movement or a political crisis in Spain. The civil war itself was a conflict of persons, not of principles. Its upshot was to lay the country utterly at the disposal of Count Serrano's sword. The leaders of the various bands which had laid waste the Peninsula, rather as brigands than soldiers, absorbed their swards and joined hands in invading the Court, the Council, and the Parliament, and setting themselves, upon the principle of old Imperial Praetorianism, above the Sovereign no less than above the people. They monopolized all power, honours, and emoluments, heaped themselves to rank and titles, marshals' batons, dukedoms, orders, pensions, enormous fortunes. There was no mean jealousy, no implacable enmity between them—only a friendly fair scramble; what could be divided between them they took by shares; what was indivisible they left to the lucky. There was something like honour among marshals. It was Hottie mihi, cras tibi. The man in power stuck fast to his place till the caprice of the Sovereign or of her Consort, the intrigues of a Court or the influence of a nun or confessor, had power to drive him from it. Once driven out he shakes hands with his successor, claims the right of old comradeship—comes in for the crumbs of the board from which he has just risen, puts in his turn, dies the pit under his rival's feet, unseats him, supplants him. All these men rose by the army. Their strength lies in the army. They rely upon it singly; they live by it collectively. The man at the head of the Government knows nothing else; all his policy consists in humouring the soldiers, in winning them over by lavishing honour and promotion. Unfortunately, he bribes partial the army, most of it, perhaps, but cannot bribe it all. For ninety-nine that he subdues to his party there is always at least one that he alienates. That one malcontent becomes a weapon in his rival's hands. An army is but an armed mob—many-headed, fickle, faithless. There is always a regiment or a squadron sick of barrack dullness, ready for a "spree," for a rentrée, for a pronunciamiento. The barracks give voices. It is, "Hay gente!" Down with Narvaez! Up with O'Donnell!" The traitor of to-day is to-morrow's hero. What was in the evening a revolt is hailed in the morning as a revolution. So long as the game rests with the privileged few, with the Narvaez and the O'Donnell, the Serrano, the Canobas, the Pavia, the Concha, & Hijo sections, after all, with whom the ball shoots. It is all give and take, and every man must await his turn; but what when invasion is attempted by a new man? What is to be done with the ambitious youth, with the Prim, who will not be content with his County or Marquisate, but must needs have all or nothing? Why, he must be put down; but Prim won't be put down. He looks for partisans among subalterns, creates a party among progressists and corporals democrats, and then, behold, a plots with arrant Radicals; puts forth schemes of a change of dynasties, of Iberian annexations, of a fusion of Spain with Portugal. There is a stir in the barracks in February; another more serious in August. But Prim is not O'Donnell; Aranjuez has not the bunk of Vicalvaro. The pronunciamiento hirns not a Sueco. The small conspirators are caught in the net; the big one breaks through it. But the result for the country is bloodshed, imprisonment, banishment, transportation, aggravation of tyranny and misrule. In April, 1865, Narvaez being Prime Minister, blood flowed in the streets of Madrid. The butchery was thought to have been too atrocious. Narvaez became "impossible." Room was made for O'Donnell; but where Narvaez had dipped his hands in blood to the wrist, O'Donnell immersed his arm up to the elbow. The massacre of August outdid those of April. Down went O'Donnell, Narvaez was up again. A short twelvemonth ago, Gonzales Bravo, Narvaez's colleague, threatened to show his face about the streets of Madrid. He is now once more in power, and his rule is a reign of terror, unparalleled even in Spain. The Spanish people have strong nerves, not easily shaken by trifles. Let a political movement turn out as it may, one is sure to be beaten, and that one is the rebel and traitor. A traitor is shot if military, garotted if a civilian. An execution follows close upon a pronunciamiento, as thunder comes after lightning. The favourite promenade of Puente-Castellana is chosen for the scene of the tragic drama. The scaffold rises beside the fashionable drive, almost opposite to the bull ring. Your Spaniard is an eager for one show as for the other. Still, with all the callousness of that ate a nation to deeds of bloodshed, it could hardly be proof against the horrors that have been perpetrated in the country for the last two months; and the foreign press, especially the French, has raised a cry of execration that has been but too successfully smothered in the Peninsula itself. If we may believe only one-tenth of what is written, we are not to have to know the means by which tranquillity has been re-established. After the hundreds that have been disposed of summarily either during the conflict or immediately after it, we know of scores of capital sentences pronounced by court-martial. We hear of whole cargoes of prisoners transported without trial to the penal settlements in the Philippine Islands. The whole staff of the Iris, that of the Democrata, many of the most distinguished writers and thinkers, have thus been disposed of. "There is order and silence," says the Governor of Madrid, "and now that we have cleared the land of journalists the restrictions on the journals shall be removed." It is thus that they manage things in Spain. A noble country inhabited by as noble a race—a brave race, patient, docile, with lofty instincts, and no mean capabilities; but a nation, for some reason or other, that never had a chance with its Government. The last fifty years of Spanish history make up a tale of bloodshed and violence for which we find hardly a parallel in the whole series of European annals; yet, unless common report greatly wrongs them, the present rulers seem bent on outdoing the very worst severities of which even Spain has as yet had any experience.—Times.
